What is It

Were you able to correctly answer the previous activity? How did you do it? Let us discuss your answer.

You were able to answer the activity by using illustrations given and described their role as community helpers. Such words that describe people's traits, feelings or emotion, places, and events are called descriptive words.

Illustrations and characters help us write words, phrases, and sentences with the use of descriptive words.

Through illustrations, the reader will be able to interpret visual images while characters tell about the inner qualities of a person.

Let's take a look at this example.

Elena loves helping at home. She waters the plants and dusts their furniture. She helps her mother cook in the kitchen. These actions of Elena show that she is a hardworking and helpful daughter.

Being hardworking in this context is that Elena does her responsibilities as a member of the family. Being helpful here means she cares for others like her mother and provides assistance to make the work easier.

There are other activities like doing household chores, washing the plates or fixing your bed in the morning are just simple yet meaningful actions you can do.

In describing a character or illustration by writing some words, a phrase or a sentence, we can look into the physical characteristics like hair and eye color, height, size, facial feature and even clothing. When describing someone's age you may use the following words like young, old, senior, youth.

We can also describe a character's traits through one's actions, words and thoughts. Positive traits like being honest, thrifty, kind and industrious are some descriptive words we can use.

Here is another example of a positive trait.

A grade two pupil, named Marlon Santos from Sto. Domingo Elementary School in Minalin, Pampanga found a wallet which he gave back to the owner. He was awarded by the barangay officials for being honest. The money amounting to five thousand pesos was intended for the medication of Mrs. Fely Yambao, the owner of the wallet.

Marlon shows a positive trait of being honest. He gives back the wallet to the real owner. His honesty is manifested through his deeds. Being an honest person, you are also considered to be sincere, truthful and trustworthy.

Meanwhile, illustrations like signages that we see on streets help us become more aware of the things around us. Knowing these and following what they suggest, and mean would help us avoid accidents, like when crossing the street, one must use the pedestrian lane.

And by simply following the signage “Keep Off the Grass” remind us to do things properly in public places.

Here are some examples:

Signage	Description	Meaning
	Letter P inside the circle with a diagonal line	No Parking
	A circle with a hand holding flowers	No Picking of Flowers
	A dog running towards a man	Beware of dogs
	A can where to place garbage	Put your garbage here
